

PRESS RELEASE FROM IGLASS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

iglass to show more new products on their stand K66 at Grand Designs in May iglass Ltd have today announced they will have more new product on show at the popular Grand Designs show at Excel, London

Their presence at kbb in Birmingham created huge interest amongst the trade visitors and Gregg Botterman, MD of iglass was extremely happy with how their show went.

"It is very encouraging that we generated so much interest in ALL our products especially as we are still in the recession!" commented Gregg. "We had an immense amount of interest in our products and the follow up on those sales leads has produced an exciting amount of orders for both private residences and retail. We have just launched some new products and a new product brochure, but I think the foot flow at kbb was excellent and the people stopping at our stand were very genuinely interested in buying iglass products"

At Grand Designs, iglass will be showing their new and exclusive floating glass table for the first time since it was launched in their new product brochure last month. Other products on display at their stand include their very popular crackle glass range of worktops and splashbacks, their ultra modern and eye catching backlit splashbacks, a new range of glass door handles, unique image splashbacks, the new floating sink unit, anti-slip floor tiles, a bespoke shower enclosure and a host of glass samples for visitors to look at.

Iglass was established over 6 years ago by Gregg Botterman and still remains part of Instumentglasses, a family run business set up by Gregg's father in 1962 as a specialist glass manufacturer for a wide range of industries.

To meet the iglass team and to view a sample of their products or to pick up a copy of their new product brochure, please visit them at stand K66 at Grand Designs.
