JUNE 2nd 2010

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Red Hot Summer Kitchens From iglass

Steamy reds, vibrant yellows, unique crackle and image glass splashbacks or stunning backlit splashbacks – iglass have it all covered for summer 2010.

iglass have been creating a stir this year with their new product launches and unique glass designs. They have taken splashbacks and worktops to a new elevated level of design and sophistication with the use of fascinating glass design effects and distinctive images and patterns.

The range of standard colours from iglass has expanded to 24, but if customers are not happy with that, iglass offer to match any colour handed to them, so the choice is unlimited.

Managing Director of iglass, Gregg Botterman commented “Glass splashbacks and worktops are increasing in popularity because there is so much choice; unlike steel and chrome, glass is available in a multitude of colours and finishes so customers can have exactly what they want. Glass is inherently hygienic and unlike tiles there are no unsightly grout lines, so the end result is a smooth, shiny, immaculate finish – our customers love the end result” iglass have over 60 years experience in the glass industry and this know-how serves very well with their skilled ability to use computer controlled water jet cutting machines to make the perfect cut out for taps, sockets and appliances. Their splashbacks are available in large sheets (2250 x 3210mm) which enables a glossy, perfect look to walls and work surfaces, with flawless joins.

iglass have the expertise, high tech equipment and ability to produce glass work tops and splashbacks in a variety of unique finishes - such as a sparkle, image and crackle glass effect or a mesmerising back-lit splashback.

They have led the way in adapting standard glass into new imaginative creations – customers can now choose bright sunflower images, sensual red roses, trickling waterfalls, black and white vintage photography or personal images to be printed on the glass. They may prefer the ultra modern silver mirror crackle glass effect or a space odyssey sparkle effect or the new colour changing back lit splash back which can create both ambient, calm or startling lighting, depending upon which setting the customer chooses to suit their mood.

iglass have forged themselves a position in the market place as leaders of inventive and original glass design, be it splashbacks and worktops or glass furniture. Gregg concluded “We are always happy to try anything new, if a customer comes to us with an idea we are more than happy to produce it. Glass is so fantastically flexible – why be boring when the design options are infinite!”
